'Church Fight,' 'Sisters,' Two One Act Plays, Opening Friday

Starting the new year with a double-dose of theatrical excellence, DL Productions will present two one-act plays, "Church Fight," by Ruth Gaines Shelton, and "Sisters," written by Sylvia Kinard. The plays will run for eight performances beginning January 1, at the ATA/Sargent theater, 314 West 54th Street.

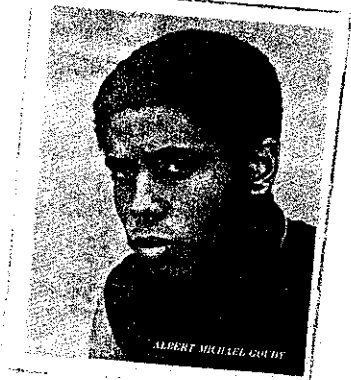

Performances will begin at 8 p.m.

"Church Fight" is a deliciously naughty comedy about the trials and tribulations of a pastor accused of unrighteous living, by his congregation.

In "Sisters," we are treated to a poignant reunion of old friends at a bridal shower and the different turns their lives have taken over the years.

Both plays are produced and directed by Darrel Lacey.

For ticket information, contact DL Productions at (212) 996-9187.
